This settlement is nowhere near strong enough! Microsoft has to be stopped from using its competitive advantage to take over new markets! Have you looked at the Passport part of their .Net initiative? They now want to own everyone's online identity, passwords, credit card numbers, ... And, they have a good chance of succeeding because their monopoly on PC operating systems and browsers allows them to lure people into their .Net clutches. Also, have you noticed the incredible security holes that constantly pop up in their operating systems (eg, XP) and applications? These will allow malicious hackers and terrorists to bring down any website, or even the whole internet by taking over the PCs of unsuspecting users and using them as zombies to do the DOS attacks. uSoft can only get away with such callous disregard for the people of our country, and even our country itself because of their monopoly on desktop machines.

Please get serious about this and punish Microsoft in accordance to the severity of their past and continuing crimes!

Thank you.
